

Reporter. It's pretty clear that Hensarling does not want to extend the Export-Import Bank. And I'm understanding that he's going through the process in his Committee. If the Senate passes something, could you put that – could that get a vote?

Speaker Boehner. Listen, I support any plan that the Chairman can get through his Committee – whether it would reform the Bank, wind it down. But there are thousands of jobs on the line that would disappear pretty quickly if the Ex-Im Bank would disappear. So I've told the Chairman he needs to come up with a plan because the risk is, if he does nothing, the Senate is likely to act – and then what?

Reporter. Well that's what I'm asking. That was my question.

Speaker Boehner. It's a question I posed to the Chairman. You might want to ask him.
